THE LANCASTER INTELLIGENCER.

LANCASTER, JANUARY 11, 1887.

The Canadian Fisheries

Secretary Manning has sent in his reply to the resolution of inquiry regarding the fishery question and he does not hesitate to use the proper terms in describing the conduct of the Dominion government. It seems that less than twenty-five per cent. of the fishermen are American born, and of the rest half are natives of Canada who have been naturalized, and half are un-naturalized and British subjects. The latter come to the United States every spring to engage in American vessels and return home at the close of the fishing season.

The Canadian government complains that these people smuggle their supplies in our fishing vessels, but the secretary says that Canada knew this and has permitted it to become an established custom through long continued permission; but suddenly in 1886 it began to vigorously enforce custom regulations. He then comments on the fact that while Canadian vessels are permitted to touch and trade at any American port in the same manner as vessels not engaged in the fisheries, American vessels are excluded from the trade and hospitality of Canadian ports. "Brutal!" is a strong word to find in a state document but Secretary Manning uses it in the right place. "While this department protects Canadian fishermen in the use of American ports, the Dominion of Canada brutally excludes American fishermen from Canadian ports."

The Canadians excuse their action by saying that to return our hospitality would be to abrogate the treaty of 1818. But Mr. Manning says the treaty of 1818 has nothing to do with the case. He says that our government has often had occasion to seize and prosecute foreign vessels, and adds, "but I believe there never will be in the future, such passionate spite displayed by the officers of this government as has during the last summer been exhibited in the Dominion of Canada toward well-meaning American fishermen. Congress has forbidden the head of this department to prosecute, even for evasion of the tariff law, unless satisfied of an actual intention to defraud."

American railroads are at the service of Canadians, but our fishermen are not permitted to land their fish in Canada and ship them over Canadian railways. Until the beginning of 1886, they could ship a cargo of fish home in this way, and return to the fishing grounds without the loss of more than a day, now they are compelled to make the long voyage home.

As a retaliatory measure he recommends the president should forbid Canadian to send engines to enter the United States which would bring pressure to bear against the Dominion government at home.

York Gets a Charter.

Deputy Attorney General Sudgrass has rendered a decision that York is entitled to a city charter. It had been protested against the granting of the charter that a majority of the electors of the borough had not voted for it within the meaning of the constitution. Of 3,147 votes upon the question of a city charter, 1,255 were cast against and 1,892 for it, which latter number is not a majority of all the electors, although a majority of 637 on the vote cast.

But the state department was right in its decision. Those who did not vote on the question at all may be easily presumed to have assented on the principle of their silence. Besides with the ebb and flow of population, it would be practically impossible to ascertain the exact majority of the electors. A majority of those voting is sufficient.

We congratulate fair York on putting on a city suit, and know that it will be very becoming.

Criminal Blood-Spilling.

Officer John Brown is a section special policeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad at Philadelphia. James Lyons is one of those unfortunate who, having no home, wanders from place to place, subsisting as best he may. Lyons was snugly fixed in an empty covey car in Philadelphia the other day when Brown discovered him. Lyons took to his heels, whereat Brown promptly shot him through the lung, and Lyons now lies between life and death.

Stealing a ride from one of the big corporations is certainly wrong, but it is not a capital offense. To be shot down for secreting one's self in a car is a case where the punishment by no means fits the crime. If Lyons dies, it would be proper to give Jones about twelve years' imprisonment to afford him time for meditation over the sanctity of human life and the danger of allowing a fool to carry a pistol.

A School Defect.

Superintendent Draper, of the New York schools, says that from 3,000 to 4,000 teachers in the public schools of that state drop out every year, and their places are supplied by as many more without previous experience, nine-tenths of whom have no adequate preparation for the work.

This is a large proportion of the whole, but who will wonder when the small wages of the teacher is considered? Besides who will blame a young woman for improving the lot of a young man by marrying him, even if the schools do suffer thereby?

For Properly Heating Cars.

The recent terrible loss of life by fire in railroad cars has inspired Representative Tillman to introduce a bill in the House at Washington. It forbids the use, in mail or passenger cars, of any stove or heating apparatus containing inflammable substance, except illuminating gas. The bill also requires the cars to be heated by steam and lighted by gas or electricity, and to carry saws, hammers and other tools for wrecking purposes. It provides for the punishment of railroad directors who neglect to observe its provisions.

It is to be hoped that this bill will not be allowed to die on the calendar.

THE toboggan slide! Are you ready for it?

An accident, peculiarly horrible and likely to occur at this time of the year, reported from Baltimore. Mrs. Charles Arden on Saturday night had just seated herself in a rocking-chair with some work in her hand in the sitting-room, when, it is supposed, the slight jar from the rocking of the chair caused the chain suspending a swinging oil lamp to break. She was seated under the lamp to get the best light, and in falling it struck Mrs. Arden, and breaking exploded, saturating her clothing with the oil. In an instant she was a sheet of flame, and shrieking in agony, she ran for the front door, probably to reach the snow in the yard. She was so badly burned that she died soon afterward. Before she died she directed the swinging lamp in the parlor to be removed, for fear of a similar accident. There is a moral in this for all who have this kind of lighting fixtures.

In this issue is begun a beautiful story by F. Marion Crawford to be finished in four numbers.

MR. STUART C. CUMBERLAND, the mind-reader, has an article in the December number of the Nineteenth Century which is full of interest, because of its frank and honest tone and the evident wish of the writer to account for what he does on rational grounds. He says he was a bright boy, but did not begin mind-reading until six years ago. At first he was inclined to imagine that he was supernaturally endowed, but soon concluded that his power was only due to a skilled and delicate interpretation of the unconscious movements of the subject. "Will-ing is either dragging or pushing" is the formula he gives. He found his best subjects among active brain workers who had formed habits of closely concentrating their attention, which confers the opinion of psychology that intense and fixed attention is incipient magnetism.

He says that "lawyers are dodgy and unsatisfactory; military men make excellent subjects; musicians cannot fix their attention on anything but music; artists are better subjects; clergymen are perturbed in the drawing room, but not in the study; physicians are good subjects when they have no theory about mind-reading. Von Moitke was the best subject and M. Dumas the worst subject. Englishmen and Germans are perhaps the best races for subjects; while uncivilized races, such as Chinamen and Indians, are bad."

He has no faith in mind reading without contact. Science thinks that this strange power is closely allied to that of reading character and Mr. Cumberland believes that it might be made useful in detecting criminals as he once succeeded in doing himself.

The Republicans are trying to steal the senatorship of Indiana and New Jersey. They stole the presidency once and need watching.

JAMES VICK, the Rochester (N. Y.) seedsman, issues the most complete guide to florists, agriculturists, and horticulturists that can be obtained. The January number is full of information on new and standard plants. The Musical Herald, published monthly in Boston, is probably the best magazine of that kind issued for $1 per year. Its five editors put between every word and word reading.

The Saturday Review, a journal universally recognized as an able exponent of sanitation, is published by William C. Conant, 34 Bond Street, New York.

Anyone desiring the most accurate and reliable information on fish, fishing and fish culture will get it by purchasing The American Angler. William C. Harris, 252 Broadway, New York, is manager.

I. C. DELLONE, a representative from York county to the legislature, starts his career by refusing a free pass from the Reading railroad company. He has our best wishes for his future.

THE civil name of Emin Bey, who is bequeathed in Central Africa, is Schwitzer. He was a doctor of Silesia, Austria, and entered the khedive's service about ten years ago. As a reward for his ability and success he was made Emin Bey and given command of the Upper Nile, where he has ever since been struggling to uphold the power of Egypt against the followers of the mahdi. Thus far no attempts have been made, either by the English government or the khedive, to remove Emin Bey from his position. Dr. Fischer, a German naturalist, who has spent many years on the coast, was sent out by geological societies of Germany, aided by the German government. This expedition could get no farther than Victoria Nyanza and returned last June. In the early part of the present year, Dr. Oskar Letz was sent out by the Austrian government to try to reach Emin Bey by the western coast of Africa. He steamed up the river Congo to Stanley falls, and left there on the 4th of April, but has not since been heard from.

Now Dr. Joseph Thomson, an English explorer of note, offers to lead a relief expedition from Mombasa on the Indian coast, 120 miles north of Zanzibar. His purpose is to cross a mountain chain of great height and capped with eternal snow. His route will then pass through the territory of the Masai, one of the most warlike and unfriendly tribes of Africa. It is said that Stanley will command an expedition to be sent out by the Egyptian government and that he will follow the Congo route. The last letter from Emin Bey shows that he had made good use of his time in spite of his pest and made a grand zoological collection.

HENRY GEORGE is in favor of early closing. He should sometimes think of this when he is tempted to talk or write too much.

He sat on Her Bustle.

From the West Chester Republican. One of those untoward accidents that occur to mar the pleasure of festive occasions took place one evening last week at the coasting ground on North Dartington street. A fire was loading with merry throngs preparatory to a descent of the hill, the seat next to that at the end being allotted to a young lady who had herself carefully chosen leaving a few inches at the extreme rear for the accommodation of the last man, who by the way is not unknown in journalistic and scientific circles. The lady had carefully arranged her drapery, her dress apparently covering considerable space which the young man, already possibly regarded in the light of a trespass upon the domain, as when he seated himself abruptly after a good deal of the fire he deposited his avoidable plump upon a bare one dollar and fifty cent bustle, crushing it entirely out of shape and giving it the appearance of having passed through a rolling mill. The circumstance is noted as evidence that the extreme rear of a coasting at the same time is not comfortable, and to promote future harmony should be indulged separately.

Feminine Restrictions in Bavaria.

In Bavaria it is not good form for a lady to shake hands with a gentleman until she is very well acquainted with him, and no unmarried woman is allowed to shake hands with any of her friends of the opposite sex, no matter how well she may know them.

PERSONAL.

EX-JUDGE HENDERSON, of Carlisle, is the latest name for attorney general of Beaver's cabinet.

HENRY STEVENS has been chosen president of the Sunday School association of the Protestant Episcopal church in the diocese of Pennsylvania.

SENATOR CAMERON, while he declined to make a public statement to the fact that he was leaving for reasons which, he said, would be satisfactory to her, is said to have canceled and returned to her a note of the late Senator Logan for a loan running up to the thousands.

REV. NICHOLAS WHEATMAN GOETTEL, for eighteen years pastor and commissioner at Haverhill, Mass., was killed Monday by falling down stairs at his residence in Clinton, New York. He was about 70 years of age. He was for some time a Lutheran preacher in Philadelphia.

MICHAEL DAVITT and bride were given a splendid reception by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sullivan in Chicago, on Monday. A brilliant feature of the menu was "Home Rule pudding, California sauce," and the ice cream was in orange and green. The ladies' toilets were beautiful and the affair was delightful.

LEVIN PENNOCK, one of Coatesville's oldest and most prominent retired citizens, died Monday morning, of heart disease, after an illness of only a few moments. Deceased was about 72 years of age, and while in active business life was prominent in all that pertains to the active measures enlisting the attention of the public.

REV. WILLIAM M. GILBERT, pastor of St. James M. E. church, Oney, Pa., stated to his congregation on Sunday last that he could no longer preach with the same fervor. It is also said that Mr. Gilbert told members of his congregation that he did not believe in the divinity of Jesus, and did not know if there were a God.

PRESIDENT WHITE, of Cornell University, in an address to the students last Saturday said, "We constantly have these two things: a vast number of young fellows running around the country, doing almost anything and doing it ill; and on the other hand a considerable number of places looking almost in for somebody to do the best work."

His Prospects.

Young Man—I love your daughter, sir, and would like to make her my wife. Father—What are your prospects? Young Man—I think they're pretty good if you say yes.

THE SONG OF THE FLY.

With quivering wings and hum, With quivering wings and hum, A woman reclined on a balcony chair When she ought to have been in bed. Rich! rich! In her low-necked silk adorned, But still, with a voice of delicious pity, She muttered, "I'm awfully tired."

Dance! dance! dance! This year had best be to swing! Dance! dance! dance! And with a horrible thump! It's off to a girl! I would teach the nation of wit, For when they get into this meddling world They never know when to quit.

Oh girls with mothers dear! Oh, young and girly wives! Drawing rooms, but not in the drawing room! When you're spending away your money, But your mother and husband's hair, You'll find that never a fly remains When you get too old to flirt!

"There was a sound of revelry by night" and she had a card but couldn't get it out of her pocket. Her husband, who was a level head, and instead of a bouquet brought Salvation Oil. They went, and were happy ever more."

ATHLORPHOS FOR RHEUMATISM.

Heartless Cruelty

It is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless infirm will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Humanity is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlrophos have never claimed for it even all its merits would warrant us not to believe to do with the wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that more outward applications are worthless. The disease has its seat in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the circulatory system, and which poisons and inflames it.

Athlrophos acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood, and carries it out of the system. It invigorates the action of the muscles and restores the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and it followed after the diastolic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

West Cherry, N. Y., Aug. 10, 1886. Yours of Aug. 10th, at hand, and in reply would say that Athlrophos proved the most effective remedy for neuralgia in the case of my son that I ever tried. After using half a bottle he was not troubled any more for six months.

Every druggist should keep Athlrophos and Athlrophos Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlrophos Co., No. 124 Wall Street, New York, will send either (cash or receipt on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlrophos and $2.00 for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athlrophos Pills are unequalled.
